COLLECTIVE BEHAVIOR and SOCIAL MOVEMENTS

Professor: Burrell Vann Jr

Room: TBD

Day & Time: TBD

Schedule #: TBD

DESCRIPTION

Why do people organize to change the world around them? Why do people sometimes protest but more often not? How do movements work, and why do some succeed while others fail?

At various points in history, social movements have had a substantial impact on social policy and politics. In the 1910s, women organized to earn their right to vote. In the 1960s, many protested the gross injustices endured by African-Americans in defense of civil rights. In the 1970s, college students, draft-dodgers, and others worked together to oppose the Vietnam War. In the late 2000s, a Tea Party movement emerged to protest the government's involvement in the redistribution of wealth to ameliorate income inequality. As these examples show, social movements are critical to American democracy.

This course explores the origins, dynamics, and consequences of social movements. Over the semester, we will examine a wide range of topics including: the emergence of movements, recruitment, interactions between social movements and the general public or political officials, tactics, and the factors contributing to the success and failure of movements.

OBJECTIVES (SLOs)

1. Introduce the concept of social movements, and how it differs from collective behavior.
2. Examine the emergence, development, dynamics and tactics, and impacts of social movements in the United States.
3. Gain a familiarity with current research on social movements.
4. Apply social movement theories to contemporary issues.
5. Develop action plan for organization-building around a contemporary issue.

Abstract

Competing visions of who is deserving of rewards and privileges, and different understandings of the fairness of reward allocation processes, are at the heart of political conflict. Indeed, social movement scholars generally agree that a key component of most, if not all, social movements is a shared belief that existing conditions are unfair and subject to change (Gansman 1992; McAdam 1982; Snow et al. 1986; Turner and Killian 1987). In this article we consider the role that residential segregation by education level plays in shaping perceptions of distributive justice and, in turn, providing a context conducive to conservative political mobilization. We apply these ideas in an analysis of Tea Party activism and show that educational segregation is a strong predictor of the number of Tea Party organizations in U.S. counties. In a complementary analysis, we find that individuals with a bachelor's degree are more likely than people who do not have any college education to support the Tea Party; this relationship is strongest in counties with higher levels of educational segregation.

If politics is about "who gets what, when, and how" (Lasswell 1936), then those who engage in politics on behalf of the relatively prosperous have some explaining to do. Because democratic political institutions provide opportunities for the disadvantaged to fight for a greater share of societal resources, individuals seeking to protect their advantages have an incentive to try to convince others over distributive justice. Organizations representing the interests of oppressed or disadvantaged groups argue that their constituents are being treated unfairly (Gansman 1992; Snow et al. 1986); those who resist such efforts are typically defending a reward

GRADING

Final grades will be based on assignments in Module 1, course engagement (e.g. participation accessing online materials), twice serving as discussion leader, a "building a movement" presentation, a "building a movement" playbook, and a reflection paper for a total of 200 points. This class does NOT use the +/- grading breakdown.

GRADING/REGRADE POLICY:

Students who wish for an assignment to be regraded are required to submit a written formal request, stating why the work warrants a higher grade, within seven (7) days of the date when the graded work is returned. Beyond these seven (7) days, assignment will not be regraded. A regrade may result in the same, a higher, or a lower grade - although students requesting a regrade on an assignment often receive a lower grade.

I do not accept late work. In extreme circumstances, however, I may be willing to grade late work, but written documentation will be required. But this is not a guarantee.

25 PTS

MOVEMENT PLAYBOOK

In a group, students will (design and) present a plan for a hypothetical social movement organization focused on a contemporary social issue. Students will name the group, discuss their grievances, goals, structure, and cover the process of gaining resources and participants, debate strategies and tactics for affecting policy change, and consider responses to sanctions, repression, or counter-mobilization.

40 PTS

DISCUSSION LEADER

Students will (twice) work in a team to lead discussion on an article/reading.

25 PTS

MOVEMENT PRESENTATION

In a group, students will present on the key points outlined in their movement playbook

40 PTS

COURSE PREPARATION MODULE

During Week 1, students will complete a check of the email policy, Google Doc submissions, installation of Zotero, their updated profile, and a video introduction about themselves on the class discussion board.

50 PTS

COURSE ENGAGEMENT

Engaging with the material for this class is critical for your success, as it allows you to participate in discussions on the social movements.

20 PTS

MOVEMENT REFLECTION

Students will complete a 1 page (single-spaced) reflection on the potential outcomes for their organization, its effectiveness, potential problems (internal and external), and their consequences.

EXTRA CREDIT POLICY:

Extra credit is assessed at the end of the course. Please review Course Policies on Canvas.

ENROLLMENT

PREREQUISITES FOR COURSE:

Credit or concurrent registration with PA 600. Only graduate students from the following departments are allowed: city planning, criminal justice, criminology, and public administration.

ADDING & DROPPING:

Students must make adjustments to their course schedule by the add/drop deadline indicated in the current term's Academic Calendars.

STUDENT CONDUCT

Please be courteous to your classmates and me by remaining engaged and respectful. Students are expected to conduct themselves in a way that does not interfere with the educational experience of others.

ACADEMIC (DIS)HONESTY:

The University adheres to a strict policy regarding cheating and plagiarism (outlined in Executive Order 1098). These activities will not be tolerated in this class. Become familiar with the policy and what constitutes plagiarism. Any cheating or plagiarism will result in failing this class and a disciplinary review by the University. These actions may lead to probation, suspension, or expulsion.

Examples of plagiarism include but are not limited to:

- Using sources verbatim or paraphrasing without giving proper attribution (this can include phrases, sentences, paragraphs and/or pages of work)
- Copying and pasting work from an online or offline source directly and calling it your own
- Using information you find from an online or offline source without giving the author credit
- Replacing words or phrases from another source and inserting your own words or phrases
- Submitting a piece of work you did for one class to another class

NETIQUETTE

Netiquette is online etiquette applicable to all course communications. As such, students must use appropriate language for an educational environment, including:

- - Using complete sentences, proper spelling, and grammar
 - Avoiding slang and uncommon abbreviations
 - Avoiding obscene or threatening language

RESOURCES

A complete list of all academic support services is available on the Academic Success section of the Student Affairs website.

STUDENTS WITH SPECIAL NEEDS:

Please inform the instructor during the first week of classes about any special needs that require specific arrangements related to attending class sessions, carrying out class assignments, or writing papers or examinations. According to California State University policy, students with “disabilities” must document their special needs at the Student Disability Services (SDS) in order to receive accommodations for their courses. Additional information can be found at the SDS website, by calling 619-594-6473, or by email at sds@sdsu.edu.

COUNSELING AND PSYCHOLOGICAL SERVICES (CAPS):

CAPS offers confidential counseling services by licensed psychologists, counselors, and social workers. More info can be found at their website or by contacting 619-594-5220. You can also Live Chat with a counselor between 4:00pm and 10:00pm, or call San Diego Access and Crisis 24-hour Hotline at 888-724-7240.

WRITING CENTER:

For help with improving your writing ability, the staff at the SDSU Writing Center is available in person and online.

STUDENT TECHNICAL SUPPORT:

Student support for Canvas is provided by the Library Computing Hub, located on the 2nd floor of Love Library. They can be reached at 619-594-3189 or by emailing hub@sdsu.edu.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS:

Information about SDSU’s emergency preparedness policy can be found at Campus Emergency Preparedness.

D.E.I.

DIVERSITY, EQUITY, AND INCLUSION

In this class, through readings, exercises, and activities, we are committed to honoring the diversity of experiences, including but not limited to race, ethnicity, culture, language, sex, gender identity and expression, sexual orientation, national origin, colonial status, immigration status, religion, age, ability, as well as underrepresented, first-generation, veteran, and non-traditional status. Through the inclusion and honoring of diversity, we hope to highlight the ways in which equity can be accomplished.

CHANGES TO MATERIAL:

I reserve the right to make changes to the syllabus, including the course outline, at any time, based on the pace of the class. If this is a face-to-face class, changes may include hybrid format lectures, where there will no class meeting but students are expected to read online lecture materials.
